

WHAT IS A WALK IN? by William D. Linville

My journey as a walk in began on a surgery table in California on December ___, 1996. The body that I now have used to weigh over 425 pounds. It belonged to the one I refer to as "the old Will Linville." This body was undergoing a surgical procedure that day. During the surgery, the old Will left the body.

As of six months prior to the surgery, the old Will and I had many conversations about his journey in the physical and how he had gotten to the point of wanting to leave the body. He had many questions about why his life was the way that it was. He saw all of the opportunities that he had been given to awaken from his unhappiness, as well as all of the karmic agreements that he had that were still very much awaiting resolution. He saw that he could allow himself to break and change the karmic wheels and chains that he had agreed to wake up from.

He was given clarity and the offering and assistance to go beyond. Yet from all that he had gone through--from his time in the womb, through his childhood, as well as all of his experiences into adulthood, the old Will decided that he would rather step out of this body, to return to the planet in the body of an Indigo child. Indigo children have bodies with advanced DNA. Their purpose is to assist in waking humanity up to remember who they are and to offer new clarity in diverse ways. They will change the world with their ideas and approaches to schools, families, relationships, finances—finding new ways of living in the world and being one with all that is.

Although the old Will had made his decision, he still had all of these old paradigmatic, i.e., karmic issues to resolve. As we spent these six months of his sleep hours together in communion and communication, the agreement was made that he would step out of the physical and make a full transition. I would undergo stepping into his body and taking on these agreements and issues that he had. In exchange for resolving the old Will's karmic issues, I would step into a body for the first time.

As I entered the body, the density felt extremely heavy—it was the oddest experience. When I awoke from the surgery, I turned on the television to watch a football game. But I soon found it made no sense. I turned it off and realized this was his enjoyment, not mine. I turned to the left and saw my first sunset. I felt so at peace and at home in the omnipotence of creation! Then his family came in. I recognized their roles: the mother, the wife, the brother . . . This was another odd experience. I knew what part they played, but I had no idea who they were.

The days went by and my new and first body began to break down, organ by organ. Every system began to shut down, and the body started to eat itself away, all the way down to the brain chemistry. For two and a half years I remained in a wheelchair. There were many medical attempts to heal the body and take care of the symptoms, yet nothing worked. The brain was broken down from all the different forms of medication, while the many surgeries caused the body to shut down. Cardiac arrest took place.

The illnesses were truly the dissolution of all of the old cellular memories that were not of love, light, or clarity, but that of anger, grief, confusion, and pain. During all of the pain and physical issues, symptoms, etc., the body was releasing all of the old Will memories and old karmic emotional states as well. After that I was able to move into the body completely. Then I could be fully embodied.

Once I fully embodied, I began to have one-on-one conversations with all of the old Will's family and friends. Those I call his "monad," or karmic soul group, were very confused by what was happening to their son, husband, brother, friend. They knew the old Will was no longer there. Their eyes could see the body of Will, but the old presence of Will was gone completely. As time passed there was a complete change in the appearance of the body. And the physical mannerisms changed completely as well.

In our talks, I assisted his monad, giving them clarity and guidance as to what had really happened to the old Will. I offered them the clarity and assistance to move forward and to wake up to who they are. It was such a wake-up call for all concerned, offering them the grand opportunity to embody their wholeness and live in their fullest of potential and opening to all that is. I left the life of the old Will Linville behind to live as the new Will Linville.

Many ask, "Were you an entity that took over Will Linville's body?" The best answer I can give is, "No." I am not an entity, nor a soul. I am an essence that has come into this physical embodiment to assist humanity to wake up and remember their complete divinity and omnipotence. Others ask, "Why are you here?" I am here to assist humanity to fully let the world, the universe, open to them, for them, and from them. I am here to assist in the divine marriage of the higher and lower self, assisting dear brothers to rebuild organs and cells, to connect with their angels, guides, manifest levels, archangelic realms, ascended hosts—their creator essence.

I am not superior because I am a walk in. Please remember we all have our own unique journeys, and no two are the same. We all have our roles to play, and I am merely here to assist. Acknowledge all as the the unique facets of divinity that we are. Know that all can come into your lifestreams to assist and to be enjoyed and celebrated as the planet changes to further accommodate your journey and expansion.
